

Indiana University Library Faculty Council
Research Committee Report
for the
2006/2007 Academic Year

The Indiana University Library Faculty Council Research Committee's accomplishment for the 2006/2007 centered around putting together a session for the 2007 Indiana University Librarians Day. The theme of Librarians Day was "Future of IU Libraries". Librarians Day was held at Indiana University Bloomington on June 1, 2007, and had librarians represented from all eight of Indiana University's campuses.

The members of the 2006/2007 Research Committee communicated and agreed on a presentation concentrated on just how to make time for research. The Committee agreed on the themes of how to decide upon what to do research on, how to get started with research, time management of research endeavors, as well as pinpointing potential publications as well as funding sources.

Dragomir Cosanici of Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis' Ruth Lilly Law Library and Research Committee member, agreed to do such a presentation. The session was well-received and attended. The power point of his session can be found here:
